A Bermuda School of Music (charity 483) programme, the Bermuda Chamber Music Festival, founded by and under the creative direction of Isaiah F. Pennington, is dedicated to presenting high-level chamber music while expanding access to music education across the island. Alongside its public concerts, BCMF maintains a strong commitment to outreach, bringing live chamber music directly into Bermuda's Government schools through in-school performances and interactive workshops. The festival also provides lessons wth guest artists, chamber music demonstrations, and coaching for young chamber music ensembles. Each season, BCMF brings outstanding international and Bermuda-based artists together for intimate performances centered on collaboration and connection. In 2026, BCMF raised approximately $4,250 for student bursaries supporting private music lessons for student in financial need. BCMF provides fee student tickets and dedicated 25% of ticket sales directly to bursaries, ensuring that even concert contributed to Bermuda's musical future.
